

VIJAYALAKSHMI DAS ENTREPRENEURSHIP AWARDS

Women's Day 2022
Tuesday, 8th March
Radisson Blu, New Delhi

On the occasion of International Women's Day, SATYA MicroCapital Ltd. organized Vijayalakshmi Das Entrepreneurship Awards which felicitated women entrepreneurs nestled at the grassroots level. The awards recognized women whose significant efforts have worked towards fulfilling the Government's vision of Atma Nirbhar Bharat. The awards were constituted and executed as a homage to the Mother of the Indian Microfinance Industry, Late Vijayalakshmi Das at Radisson Blu, New Delhi.

Underlining the essence of Vijayalakshmi Das Entrepreneurship Awards, Vivek Tiwari, MD, CIO & CEO, SATYA MicroCapital Ltd. said, "It is a matter of extreme pride and privilege to honour women who are trailblazing the microfinance space. Acknowledging and celebrating their achievements on account of International Women's Day will motivate women entrepreneurs to reach greater heights with flying colours. It will also encourage aspiring women entrepreneurs to improve their standards of business practices to attain a high level of entrepreneurship. With no second thought in heart, no other occasion except the Birth Anniversary of Madam Vijayalakshmi Das could be considered apt for this noble initiative. Extending our heartfelt congratulations to all the winners, SATYA laud their enthusiasm and devotion to running their business ventures."

They organize workshops, health check up, legal advisory camps in association with the related field experts like police department, CMO, high court Sr advocates on a regular basis.

Ms. Phamila Khamrang
Entrepreneur of the year – Medium
Khameipha Handloom and Handicraft Pha Han – Manipur

Ms. Phamila Khamrang is a 40 years old hard working married women and the proprietor of pha handloom & Handicraft production unit. She was brought up in a poor family by her single mother with 5 siblings, she had experienced the bitterness and hardships of life from a very young age. She always had an aspiration to help those who are less fortunate and was determined to set up her own business at all cost. In 1999, she attended one year tailoring course with the support of her younger sister. In 2002, she opened a tailoring training centre at home with five sewing machines. She had 40 poor women trainees whom she train in shift with minimal fee of Rs. 200 per month.

She also attended Embroidery training every day for two month. In this way, she started saving whatever little she could save, and kick start her business by purchasing 4 weaving looms in 2004. She started producing traditional clothes by employing 8 women for weaving and yarn works. Presently, she has employed 24 people especially widow & is also providing accommodation for them free of cost. She said, getting the opportunity to help the helpless is a happy moment which she cherishes.

In future, she wishes to generate more employment opportunities to unemployed youth and women who are unable to get job due to lack of technical skills. She also wishes to take her business online and promote the culture , heritage and tradition of the northeast people of India.

Ms. Pawani Khandelwal
Entrepreneur of the year –Medium
Startup India and FNF Foundation – Uttar Pradesh

She grew up fascinated by motorcycles and became a rider. As a young girl riding a 500cc motorbike, she had to overcome many social barriers. These challenges made her realize that from commuting to work & buying groceries, to accessing basic human rights like education and healthcare - constrained mobility adversely affects women’s socio-economic and political participation. Even if women somehow gain momentum, their boundaries remain limited. In India alone, 60% women choose a job within 0.6 miles of their home over one that takes them closer to their dreams.

Her childhood idol - Kalpana Chawla (the first Indian origin woman to go to space) convinced her that whenever women pushed their boundaries, they didn’t just take themselves forward but their entire communities. She personally experienced this when she trained her domestic help sushila to ride a bike and now earns INR 21,000 a month. She recently had a toilet constructed in her house, so her young nieces don’t have to defecate in the open. She is a role model for her entire village.

This incident propelled her to return to her hometown and start a social venture aimed at democratizing mobility for women like Sushila by the name - Aatm Nirbhar (a startup India registered, DPIIT recognized private limited company) in 2017. Training thousands of women to ride motorized scooters and watching them reclaim public spaces and increase their social, financial, and political agency by this simple, multi-pronged act, has strengthened her conviction that equitable access to safe mobility is not simply a means to empower women, but rather the foundation on which a more prosperous and equal world will be built. In a world where people are locked by the limitations of their resources, mobility is the key to real freedom. And she wants to bring this freedom to women in India and across the globe.

Ms. Padmini Santosh Waghmode
Entrepreneur of the year – Small
Rudra Sports Wear - Maharashtra

Ms. Waghmode belongs to Usmanabad, Maharashtra. After the sad demise of her husband, it was as if a mountain of sorrow had fallen upon her which led to her taking up some small jobs to make ends meet. After acquiring sufficient tailoring skills, she felt it was time to start anew, and she decided to use the sewing skills he had learned. She came to Aurangabad and worked in a sports shop for 1+years where she has gained experience. Later, she started her business called Rudra Sports Wear at home scale level and by increasing demand she decided to enter in large scale business. Starting with purchasing 4 machineries for uniform manufacturing, she has slowly built up her business. She's not only given utmost importance to the technical section, but also other important issues like the security, raw materials and employment. While doing this, she did not ignore any of the mentioned aspects and today, she has turned out to be a successful women entrepreneur, who struggled through her personal and professional responsibilities and managed to take care of each and every aspect with regards to her business. With the support of BYST and BOB Byapss Road branch, she is planning to purchase a new fully automatic machinery as well to further augment her business. In order to get trade, she accepted the challenge of creating new opportunities by visiting important traders, schools, important industries and business in the city which has made her become better in the art of marketing too.

She has supported more than 10 entrepreneurs and helped people during the COVID -19 Pandemic Situation by making and distributing masks for them and also selling masks at discounted rates to small and big mask sellers in the city. She has plans to collaborate with schools on large scale with expansion in district levels along with increasing her marketing team to generate more orders on regular basis

Ms. Rajkumari Indira Devi
Entrepreneur of the year – Small
R K Emporium – Manipur

Since the young age, Ms. Rajkumar Indira Devi was interested in handloom related activities and her dream was to start a business on handloom but due to poverty she could not pursue it.

However, the ray of hope again entered in her life when she joined Chanura Microfin Manipur on July 2007. With a sum of INR 2000, she started tailoring cum embroidery at a small scale. Thereafter, her products and services became popular in the nearby locality.

With the profit from her business, along with the continuous financial support from Chanura, she managed to install more sewing machines and was able to provide job opportunity to other women. She attended various seminars and exhibitions sponsored by Chanura and State Government. Recently, She is able to equip herself in the field of weaving after attending a training program on “Entrepreneurship Skill Development for Women” organized by Chanura Microfin Manipur, in collaboration with FWWB and HSBC. After, attending the training, she received a sum of INR 1,00,000 as Micro Enterprise Loan from Chanura and with this amount, she managed to purchase a power loom for weaving.

Now, she is able to promote more handloom products and her dream is to become a successful entrepreneur in the field of handloom. She also conducts training for other women and has so far generated an employment for 20 women. During the time of pandemic. She has made more than 50,000 face masks and supplied to Govt. departments and private firms.

Ms. Chandra Devi
Entrepreneur of the year – Small
Dev Chandra Shawl Industry – Himachal Pradesh

Ms. Chandra Devi started her handicraft work (Shawl making) in 2007. Impressed by her craftsmanship, she got lot of orders from shops in her area. As a result, both her income and popularity grew manifold, and she had to hire more people to finish the orders on time. She gave work opportunity to women from her neighborhoods to help them enhance their livelihood and become self reliant. She is now also taking part in handloom exhibitions organized at different locations to showcase and sell her products.

Social Intervention:

Ms.Chandra Devi and her team made a lot of efforts for the rights of women and motivated people to educate their daughters to make them self-reliant and financially independent. Her future plan is to take this work to every village of her district to secure women’s future and provide good education to their children.

Ms. Sheela Soni
Entrepreneur of the year – Micro
Sheela Silai Center – Rajasthan

Ms. Sheela wanted to contribute to her family's income and after completing her schooling, started looking for a job. Then she came to know about the Skills Initiative Program at Centre for Microfinance where she gained more information about the various training programs during the counselling process and understood their job prospects. Later, she joined RSETI at Sirohi for one month tailoring course. Today, she stands as entrepreneur and works along with 5 underprivileged women (two of them are widows). They get routine orders of tribal apparels (lehenga, chuniri, etc.) which is their main source of Income. During COVID-19 Pandemic, she also supported the community by providing more than 1,000 face masks. During lockdown, Sheela learnt manufacturing sanitary pads which turned to be huge learning curve where her work is also addressing a major health issue related to women hygiene. Her sanitary pads have reached more than 200 adolescent girls at schools and more than 1,600 women in rural outskirts.

Social Intervention:

Sheela always wanted women to stand on their own feet and move ahead with skills. Now as an entrepreneur, she is able to support five women (including two widows) economically by generating routine orders. During the lockdown, she learnt about the production of sanitary pads and decided to provide safe pads and awareness on myths and taboos to rural women and young girls.

Ms. Sunita Bai
Entrepreneur of the year – Micro (1st Runner Up)
Parmar Boutique – Madhya Pradesh

Ms Sunita Bai is 38-year-old tribal women who lives with her husband and children in MP. Since childhood only she dreamt to become an entrepreneur and wanted to run a business of clothes as she used to help her mother in stitching of clothes. As her family's economic condition was not well and selling of stitched clothes was the only bread and butter source for her family, therefore, she could not be able to add on the wings to fly for her dreams as she could not expand the family business. Besides this, she was also not able to complete her education and got married at very early age.

After marriage, she found the same system at her in-law's house where they used to do tailoring. She took a step forward and she apprised her husband and in laws to start her own boutique. Her husband and family supported her.

During the course of an evening discussion with village members near Chaupal, she got to know about group loan facilitated by SATYA MicroCapital Limited for the means of socio-economic upliftment of people in their area. She attended the centre meeting on the next day in her village and a ray of hope again entered her life. On the very next day Ms. Sunita attended the centre where SATYA's field office made her aware about the loan, process and documents which are required to get the loan.

After mutually discussing the need of financial support with her husband, Ms Sunita availed a loan of INR 450000 for the expansion of business. In present three is giving the employment to 4 women with monthly sales turnover of INR 60000. In future she wants to take the loan further to open 2 more boutiques.

Ms. Sarika Seth
Entrepreneur of the year – Micro (2nd Runner Up)
Fashion Boutique – Uttar Pradesh

After the sudden demise of her husband in 2017, she was completely clueless about her future and the future of her 2 children. Completely abandoned by her husband’s family, her life became miserable. She knew stitching and started her own boutique with her mom’s old sewing machine. Without financial support from any organization, she herself expanded her business and within a short span of 4 years, she has now 6 employees working for her and 9 sewing Machine, 2 pico Machine and 1 Interlock Machine. Till now, she has trained more than 50 women, out of which some has opened their own boutiques. Her hard work and dedication towards her work helps to reach in such a position where she can independently fulfilling her children’s dreams and at the same time, extending some support to the society as well.

In her words, “There are so many issues with women, but I want to address the issue related to their financial independence because in our society, majority of people think that women cannot do something on their own. They are just for household chores and cannot become entrepreneurs or cannot handle business. This is my personal experience from my life’s journey. When I started my shop, many people told me not to do this and marry someone who will take care of all this. But I remained silent and chose to continue with my startup to make it successful. Now, after my success, same people praised me for the work I am doing. I just want to say only one thing that keep doing what you want to do, society will always try to stop you but be self dependent and always contribute something to your society.
